This is an Art, Commerce and Science class.

This class covers all three disciplines.

Art

The skill of storytelling. How to voice commercials, animation and narration. It's where almost all other voice over classes stop.

Commerce

The business of the business. How to attract customers, how to show them your wares, how to fill their needs, and how to price your services and collect your fees.

Science

The technology, tools and digital skills needed to create and sustain your voice over practice. The science is always changing.

Here's the plan for class.

Introduction

A look at how podcasting has had a huge impact.

Lesson 01

Produce: Workflows for efficiency and high quality.

Lesson 02

Publish and Promote: Internet presence and distribution.

Lesson 03

Profit: Monetize in different ways and currencies.

3 Or More Things To Explore

Your homework and other actionable items.

Questions. Answers. Quiz. Certificate.

Save your questions until the end, then fire away.

Boy, is podcasting popular. At least, a few of them are.

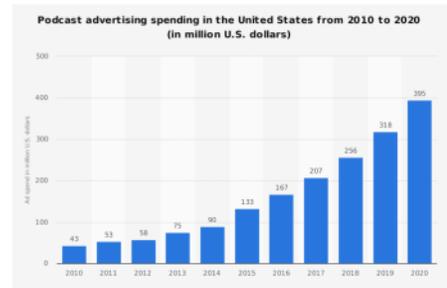

Podcasting is racking up big time-spent-listening and ad sales. But the vast majority are hardly even heard.

Listeners spend time listening:

Ad spending is still growing:

But the median number of downloads is disappointing.

The average podcast gets just 173 downloads. Total. Over its entire lifetime. That's nowhere near enough to attract advertising or subscriptions.

More amazing facts about podcasting.

Once you know these stats, think about how your avatar fits in to this ecosystem.

Half of all podcasts are listened to at home.

On the move, or in your kitchen, podcasting is easily available.

23% of Americans have listened in-car.

More gains will be made as it becomes as easy to listen to podcasts as audiobooks.

64% of Americans know what podcasts are.

That's more than know the Vice President's name.

One third of Americans listen to podcasts monthly.

That's if you're 25-54. 55 and over, just 13%: lots of growth there.

18% of Americans now own smart speakers.

That's 51 million people who have Alexa, Google Home and others.

69% of podcasts are listened to on a mobile device.

Phones and tablets, as opposed to smart speakers and computers.

Remember the 5 Ps of Podcasting?

Part 1 covered Plan – we'll cover Produce in this lesson, Publish and Promote in the next, then Profit.

Plan

Lay out the roadmap to creating each episode of your podcast.

Produce

Record, edit and master each episode, and isolate samples for promotion.

Publish

Upload each episode to your host and update your website.

Promote

Place pre- and post-release promos on social media for each episode.

Profit.

As your podcast grows, monetize it in many different ways.

Let's examine some sample clips and workflows.
Once you get your final MP3 episode finalized, everything else is then the same.

Tags and tagging:

Adding metadata, like show name, episode title, artist, and the artwork to your podcast. It's like adding a label to a package that has information about what's inside.

Text

Added as you export from Audacity.

Artwork

The 1400x1400 graphic. Added in iTunes.

Sample Workflow: Inside Acting Podcast.

A multi-host, densely produced advertiser supported podcast with many elements in the final product.

Recording

Interviews are conducted by one or both hosts, then edited to prep for insertion into final episode. Hosts record bookends via Skype.

Show notes

As all elements are being produced, notes are kept and shared via Dropbox with team. Show notes are used on website, and in description.

Mastering

Producer listens to elements, tightens, trims, takes more show notes, and exports as MP3. Also, grabs clips for promotion.

Tagging

Using iTunes as a tool, artwork is added, along with notes, genre and other IDv3 tags we click through when exporting auditions.

Upload

...to Podbean, with release date. Podbean feeds podcatchers. Also upload to YouTube and Soundcloud. Prep website.

Promote

Create promotional assets and schedule posting on all social media channels prior to and during episode release.

Sample Workflow: The Brian Trust.

A dual-host, simply produced podcast with no advertisers and few extra elements in the final product.

Recording

Hosts record entire podcast via Zoom. When there are interviews, guests are added to Zoom call. Final audio is run through Levelator.

Show notes

Show notes are created and used on website, and in description.

Mastering

Levelated audio is edited in Audacity, with potentially more show notes, and exported as MP3.

Tagging

Using iTunes as a tool, artwork is added, along with notes, genre and other IDv3 tags.

Upload

...to roll-your-own site, with release date. Site is set to feed podcatchers. Episode is scheduled.

Mastering Audio Podcasting – Part 2

Sample Workflow: Personal Netcast.

A solo, templated podcast with advertisers and immediate release.

Recording

Recording done in Audacity, with prebuilt template(s). No need to run through Levelator.

Show notes

Show notes are created and used on website, and in description.

Mastering

Final audio is trimmed in Audacity, exported as MP3, and tagged with metadata as the export is occurring (except for the podcast artwork).

Tagging

Using iTunes as a tool, artwork is added, along with notes, genre and other IDv3 tags.

Upload

...to podcast site, released immediately. Site is set to feed podcatchers. No promotion was done (as social networks weren't a thing).

What these workflows all have in common:

No matter what type of podcast you do, these three things are universal.

1 Record your audio

Record separate elements to be assembled in editing, or record live to tape.

2 Edit your audio

It may be as simple as trimming your live-to-tape content, or it might require assembly of different elements for each episode.

3 Export to MP3 and tag

Unless you are featuring hi-def audio, 64k mono is more than good enough. Tagging is super simple.

Mastering Audio Podcasting – Part 2

Copyright ©2019 VO2GoGo, Inc. All rights reserved worldwide

Tagging: for those who want to be discovered.

Adding information to your podcast's RSS feed and to your individual episodes is how people find you.

Episode info

You change this with every new episode: episode title, description, etc.

Show notes

Keeping great show notes means you can insert a summary of your episode, right in the episode itself.

Podcast info

You do this just once (unless you have to update your overall podcast information: the name of your podcast, the link to its website, etc.)

Artwork

You create artwork to brand your podcast itself, and then you use that artwork in every episode.

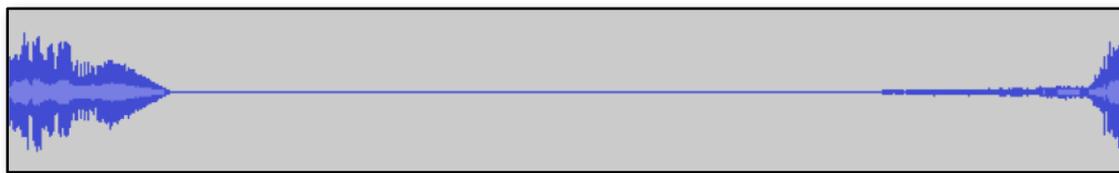

Mastering Audio Podcasting – Part 2

Copyright ©2019 VO2GoGo, Inc. All rights reserved worldwide

Creating a template for simple podcasts.

Build audio donut templates, that you can use over and over, to make producing each episode a snap.

OPEN

Theme, announcer, music, whatever. Volume managed so you can talk over it, and it fades to silence.

BED OF SILENCE

The bulk of the template, where you deliver your content. Once you hear the closing, start to wrap things up.

CLOSING

Theme sneaks under you at a very low volume for a set period of time, then increases in volume to end.

Live Demo: Recording and Tagging The Personal Netcast

Using pre-built templates, a look inside the production process of a daily short-form podcast.

Sample Workflow: Secrets Of Screen Acting.

A daily, dual-voiced, premium podcast, with no advertising, and dripped release to paid subscribers.

Recording

Recording done in Audacity, with prebuilt template(s). No need to run through Levelator. 20 episodes recorded at once for future release.

Show notes

Show notes are created and used on website, and in description.

Mastering

Final audio is trimmed in Audacity, and exported as MP3.

Tagging

Using iTunes as a tool, artwork is added, along with notes, genre and other IDv3 tags.

Upload

...to podcast site, released daily on set schedule to paid subscribers only. Site is set to feed podcatchers. No promotion was done.

Some really good news about your platform choice.

You really can't make a mistake, because each of the contenders is so good. Competition will do that.

The hosting is all via redundant servers in the cloud.

No matter who you choose, your podcast episodes are distributed and backed up.

The cost is relatively the same.

No one's raking podcasters over the coals for fees. And you can usually start small or for free.

They all have great connectivity with the podcatchers.

More on that in just a moment, but know that each platform makes sure you're highly discoverable.

They all know each other and care about the podcasting community.

This is not a cutthroat area of service – they are all friendly competitors, and it shows in their care for you.

Your choice of platforms is, however (for all practical purposes), permanent. Even though all claim easy migration, it's anything but.

Once you choose a platform, get listed with all podcatchers. These are the main superhighways of podcast discovery. You want to be on all of them.

iTunes

The big dog on the block, Apple was the first to treat podcasts as important.

Stitcher

Designed to be platform agnostic, Stitcher integrates with smart speakers and car audio systems.

Spotify

Spotify began as an internet radio network, and added premium podcasts. Now, everyone can play.

Google Podcast

A parallel to iTunes, but for Android users.

TuneIn

A cross between, and competitor of, Stitcher and Spotify.

Voilà! You're a podcaster! But there's a bit more to do.

Once you get the hang of it, creating a podcast episode is a cinch. But you still have to promote it.

Mastering Audio Podcasting – Part 2

Copyright ©2019 VO2GoGo, Inc. All rights reserved worldwide

Don't just publish your first episodes. Launch them.

Apple might be more interested in you if you can attract enough attention as your podcast starts.

Launch with three tentpole episodes.

These are episodes that make great samples ones you can refer back to in future episodes, saving you time by not repeating yourself, and they increase your rankings and listens as you send any new listeners back to them.

Run a contest to get on iTunes' New and Noteworthy.

Email your community 3 times just after the 3rd tentpole episode, directing them to post to all social media,. Keep track of their posts, and offer a prize that your avatar highly values (not cash). Run for 2 weeks.

Maintain exposure after New and Noteworthy.

Release on a regular schedule, tease for a few days before each episode, staggering promos across social channels for three days after release, asking guests to promote as well, and teasing future episodes in current ones.

Promotion begins with repurposing content as promos.

Using pre-built templates, a look inside the promo process you'll need to do for each episode.

38

Promoting each episode: get a system in place.

How do you get the word out on your latest creation? Pick great snippets, and post like a pro.

Grab 2 great 30-second clips

Follow the lead of network TV promos: go for emotion, controversy or open-endedness. Pick things that will fascinate your avatar.

Use headliner.app

Templating your promo backgrounds, create audiograms for each new episode that are sized for each social network.

Grab 3 awesome quotes

What would make your avatar think, feel, laugh, cry, cheer, or boo about something you (or a guest) might have said?

Or use a service

There are several services that will do this for you; you just provide the audio and quotes.

Two types of monetizing: direct and indirect.

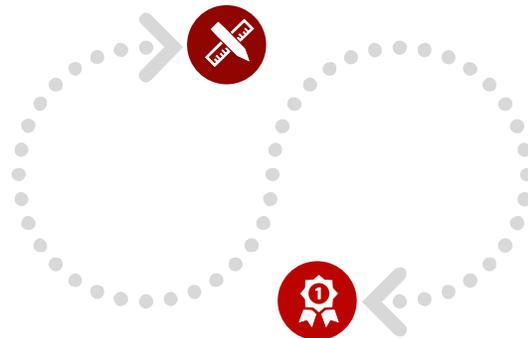

You could be in it for the straightforward profit, and you can also benefit from indirect income.

Direct monetization

Making money specifically on the content of your podcast, and access to it or your audience.

Indirect monetization

Selling or developing items that are adjacent to the podcast itself: products, services and assets.

What should you charge for advertising?

Taking a page out of the radio and television ad sales playbook, you have options.

01 By the thousand
Called CPM, or cost per thousand, you set a price based on the number of impressions each ad will get. $25-$50 CPM.

02 By the click
Called CPC, or cost per click, you price based on the number of clickthroughs the ads generate, usually via a tracking URL. Negotiable.

03 By the action
Called CPA, or cost per action, this pays you a fee for every sale of the product being advertised. Negotiable, but higher than CPC.

04 By star power/sustaining
If the audience isn't huge, but a podcast is targeted well, the price can be whatever the buyer is willing to pay. Negotiable.

Listbuilding:

Use your podcast to build your email list, and to co-market and affiliate with guests. And remember, your number one job as an entrepreneur is to build your list.

Finally, create vanity podcasts for others.

Here's how Tim Carter of Ask The Builder made $20,000 for a 10-episode limited-run vanity podcast.

Be a recognized expert in your field.

You must have authority and an audience of avatars.

Find a client that needs promotion.

Pitch them on interviewing their expert on their stuff.

Do a series of interviews over Zoom.

Interview their expert on their process and products.

Produce those interviews as podcast episodes.

Do all the work for the client, turnkey. All 5 Ps of podcasting.

It's time to surprise and delight your avatar.

Get going. She's waiting for you and your awesome podcast. Why keep her waiting any longer?

3 Or More Things To Explore

Your homework and other actionable items.

But first, some things NOT to explore.

Resist the urge to reinvent the wheel – don't change these best practices.

- ❌ Don't decide that MP3's sound sucks and you can do better.
- ❌ Don't stuff keywords into title, author, description or any other tag.
- ❌ Don't use anything but FIRSTNAME LASTNAME for your author tag.
- ❌ Don't vary from 1400x1400 for your artwork. Apple won't list you.
- ❌ Don't turn your podcast name or episode title into a description – keep it brief.
- ❌ Don't disappoint your avatar by "taking things to the next level."
- ❌ Don't try to get advertisers with very few downloads (<500 per episode).

3 or more things to explore.

Next steps: take what you've learned, explore and learn more, then put that all to work.

- +
- Determine what type of podcast you want to create. Solo? Panel? Other?
- +
- Create your format and workflow. Pick a platform and type of monetization.
- +
- Create a clipping system to promote and publish your podcast regularly.
- +
- Get started. Now. Don't wait until everything is perfect. Have fun. Get jets.

Once you get started, get better. You might even be honored.

Version Done of your podcast is better than Version None. And you might just nail it.
